

Companies Who Hire Adults With Autism

In April 2019, Auto Trader became the first business to receive the National Autistic Society's Autism Friendly Employer award. This is in recognition of work they have been doing around developing specialist standards across recruitment, staff awareness of autism and support for autistic employees.

GCHQ believes in diversity, fully embraces and recognises differences in society such as caring responsibilities, flexible working, personal styles and processing differences.

Cambridgeshire-based and chocolatiers Harry Specters are dedicated to crafting the most delicious award-winning chocolates that create employment for young autistic adults.

Ultronauts provides onshore quality engineering and assurance services. 75% of its workforce are on the autism spectrum.

Microsoft's dedicated Microsoft Neurodiversity Hiring Program offers job recruitment and career development strategies related to diversity and inclusion.

FordWorks program focuses on assisting individuals with autism. FordWorks has partnered with Upbound at Work for the hiring, training and on the job support of individuals who identify as having a disability.

In 2016, EY launched a neurodiversity program, which now employs more than 100 professionals with cognitive challenges in six Neurodiversity Centers of Excellence (COEs), with three more on the way.

JPMorgan Chase launched Autism at Work in July 2015 as a four-person pilot. Since then, it's grown to over 150 employees in eight countries. The program boasts a 99% retention rate.

The DXC Dandelion Program is an initiative designed to provide people on the autism spectrum with technical, life and executive functioning skills to increase employability and pursue careers in information technology.

HP Spectrum Success Program offers a program focused on recruiting, hiring, and retaining qualified candidates with autism.

SAP's groundbreaking Autism at Work program, launched in 2013, leverages the unique abilities and perspectives of people with autism to foster innovation as we help customers become intelligent enterprises. The program taps into an underutilized talent source, reducing barriers of entry so qualified individuals can fully develop their potential.

The Dell Autism Hiring Program was launched with the intent to provide career readiness training and possible full-time career opportunities for neurodivergent job seekers.

Universal Music UK say they recognise the importance of diversity of thought within their teams and are fully committed to embracing the talents of people with autism, dyslexia, ADHD and other forms of neurocognitive variation.

AMC employs people of many different backgrounds, generations, traditions and philosophies, and actively seek vendors, partners and service providers who can enhance our commitment to a diverse AMC family.

Hidden Disabilities Sunflower is a British scheme and company created to help people with hidden disabilities navigate and find help in public places.